

Kroger reaps the rewards of utilizing AI to drive cloud innovation

Kroger reinvented their platform to change their digital presence, and better their internal operations. With teams talking different languages, resolution times and problem spotting became an issue.

In this video, hear from Jay Cotton, Performance Engineer at Kroger how the company consolidated 16 tools into one and helped create a common language between teams and so resolution times and problem-solving has become much quicker.