

2022 SCLD Report

Global research from the Thomson Reuters Institute provides legal spend benchmarks, evidence-led advice to optimize legal processes, and peer insights.

The key priorities of corporate law departments are similar year-on-year, despite the extreme turbulence experienced across most economies and industries.

Ongoing global research from the Thomson Reuters Institute illustrates that the period of rapid change that began during the COVID-19 pandemic will continue through 2022. The most successful legal departments will be those which can leverage the momentum of the last two years to actively embrace transformative change, both within their own organizations and in their relationships with outside advisors.

Get your complimentary copy of the 2022 State of Corporate Law Departments Report to receive:

- Legal spend benchmarks to enable you to compare your business to competitors' and evaluate your spend levels and allocations
- Evidence-led advice on how to optimize your department and its outputs
- Peer insights collated from other corporate legal departments across the world to inspire innovation and transformational change.